(B.Sc., MBBS, MBA)

With my family from Delhi, I am Doctor by profession.

Since childhood, my hobby is of writing. Undergoing with my hobby, I also have written few screenplays and movies. Much similar to writing, I am fond of reading too. After arriving in the second leg of this age, I thought why not my thinking should have a face in the shape of a book.

As said Truth is bitter usually, medicines are also bitter in taste, so as well this book too. I read the books only for knowledge, likewise, I request you to read this book to understand the truth. You will have remedy of all doubts and problems right from the root.

I write blogs for some websites and magazines. I am fond of reading psychological and spiritual books. I am ready always to read the comments left by readers. You can find me roaming around books.

As a student, I had the distinct. I could argue the best. I enjoy finding reason of reasons, if you have found a cause of a problem, you have a solution too.

I am inspired by the readers and those who do criticize me. Readers are my true teachers.

I took a risk to establish successful relationship with a modern woman but I failed, so I became a guide. Had I would have been successful, I would be a leader.

My upcoming books are:-

- A Shortcut to Transform Destiny
- A Common Man Full of Evils

About The Book

Today's scenario of woman is no different from that of ancient time. In those days also, she rendered her duties as different roles of soldier, scientist, actor and many more but she did not lost her womanhood.

Modern females are fed up and apologetic having to be called her as passive and caring, she wants now to be looked with all bad male traits such as aggressive and tyranny. She wants to drink wine, she wants to beat a man, she wants to be brutal, and she is feeling good in adopting manhood.

Mannish roles are usually associated with strength, aggression, and dominance while womanly roles are associated with passivity, nurturing, and subordination. Man likes a feminine woman and woman likes a masculine man, then why females are trying to transform a man into a feminine man?

We speak about equal rights for genders and women reservation too at the same time. What does it mean? It means women should be helped out; they need protection. Even woman will accept that they need to be protected. Then what is wrong if a man protects her in his own style (I don't mean in a cruel manner), and you start saying that man is dominating.

But by competing with man in professions and business worlds which is full of roughness and competition, they must, of necessity, become aggressive and competitive. Thus, their godly feminine attributes are reduced and they acquire a quality similar to man.

Women also have the power of seduction ... they can make a man fall sexually...

That is why men do the “first talk,” in most cases. Women already had the upper hand, sexually. They had what men wanted. But they are losing their attraction because their inner beauty is lost as they are adopting manhood.

We will lose the attraction to associate with the other gender in this competition. I see from a different angle: they have taken more burden by entering into men’s field. If a woman attains equality, then what exists for men is demanded by women? This will remain a big question in women’s minds.

Unmet sexual satisfaction is another major factor for breakup or spoiled relationship. We see that husband and wife are hesitant to tell their dissatisfactions during sex to each other. You know why ... FEAR ... what way he or she will interpret about me. This fear is because of lack of intimacy and lack of understanding. They can take the risk of break up, or it may be that they take it as an opportunity to have a fresh and novel experience at the cost of family break up and spoiling the future of children.

In 70% of the divorce cases, it is observed that couple were not sexually satisfied, leading to an unhealthy relationship and at last breakup.

Today when a girl is teased, there might be a chance that people watching might come to help her. But if a boy is being teased, I bet, no one will ever step forward to help.

He has left a bad image in last many decades. And today even being right at time he does not get help or sympathy. This is also due to hypocritical nature of a male; he will always rush to help other women but dominates his wife.

Race Of Equality

Power is an illusion. Whoever it owns, it is quite possible for him/her getting misused of it. Since ancient time man had power and domination over woman, he misused it. Today woman empowerment has made woman to be fearless and protected by laws as well as by social institutions and feminists. In recent time I have heard so many stories of empowered woman who is misusing of laws and blackmailing a man. So that's a Power Game. Only balanced mind can make best use of power.

Here I am not talking about which gender is superior or inferior or who should be above or below. Males and females are complement to each other. They are two different species who share responsibility towards each other and society. If we consider this world as a plant then all female are the roots and all male are seeds of the plant, both are different but important. Equality is not important but importance of both should be realised. Men should do their part and women theirs.

I know that since ancient times some males have done brutality to females in terms of the dowry system, discrimination, and much more. Well today, females (not all) are doing brutality to males in terms of blackmailing, misuses of law, and undue advantage of privileges; not only this, they are playing the woman card. Why are both crossing their respective fields? Both know that racing against each other will kill attraction as well as respect for each other.

Many persons - males and females - are fulfilling their responsibility; they do not dominate their partner. They are still living happily.

I agree many people don't try to understand other person and impose over them their philosophy forcefully. We must understand that every person has some drawbacks where he/she cannot adjust, especially on these points other person should adjust. This is vice and versa rule for both.

Man and woman should be complement and supplement each other and be a whole for none of them can live in harmony without the other.

Men should not dominate women and women should not dominate men. But still percentage is high for male-dominating societies/families and it has been there from ages. I just want to say that up to some extent men are habitual of it, or it is their inherent quality, or they deserve it according to their virtue.

Actually man does not have ability to change his dominating nature easily. Provided a woman treat him differently then he will respond softly. Now a days some women who are not dependent on him or empowered by law, they have started dominating a man. Due to that man is not in a comfortable situation from inside. He is no more attracted toward that woman today.

I have seen many women are willingly working out as well at home too. There is something (freedom and friends) which makes her happy with the load of double work. Why should women be pestered into choosing to work out over having babies and being happy?

Why are feminists lying to women that they can look however they want –She is entering into men’s field so that she is free to get so many male attentions, today working lady feels she has so many friends to make jealous her husband any time. A lady working out with an excuse of financial support to family is justified in some cases but otherwise it is just a myth.

After getting married, many couples start feeling bored and uninterested in each other’s bodies within a short span of time and it is just like if you start eating the same type of food every day. Then eventually you’ll get bored and you’ll want change. After getting bored some women don’t hesitate to blame her man for not caring her feeling and praises another man “how caring he is”.

It’s just like a man purchases clothes of various types and various colours to have a different taste at different times. It indicates any small disputes will lead
